Dear Professor Capps:

I am very interested in the Vietnam course you are offering at UC Santa Barbara. I read an article about it in the March 10, 1985 Los Angeles Times, View.

I am the Chairperson of the Social Science Department at Allan Hancock College. Some members of my department and I have been considering ways to offer a course or workshop on the war. Last fall I taught a course in contemporary U.S. History in which I had a unit on Vietnam. The time frame was much too short to do a good job.

I would appreciate any outline or materials or information you might share with me. I am glad the course has been so successful and hope I can organize something that will work here at the community college level.

Sincerely,

Dona Boatright
Chair, Social Science Department
