

WALTER H. CAPPS CENTER
FOR THE STUDY OF
ETHICS, RELIGION, AND PUBLIC LIFE
UC SANTA BARBARA

03 13 2018

The Walter H. Capps Center
For the Study of Ethics, Religion, and Public Life

Free and open to the public.

Capps Forum on Ethics and Public Policy

Strategies for Surviving Negative Emotions in a Time of Augmentation and Polarization

Why are negative emotions out of control? How do we begin to tame them? This talk will focus on how we understand and deal with negative emotions in this turbulent moment, when new technologies (e.g. reproductive technology, digital media, robotics, AI) can contribute to the shared environment of polarization.

Tuesday
March 13, 2018
7:30p.m.
Corwin Pavilion

Charis Thompson

(Chancellor's Professor, UC Berkeley and Professor, London School of Economics and Political Science)

For further information contact
Capps Center Director
Kathleen Moore at kmoore@religion.ucsb.edu or
(805) 893-2562